Hugh Rimmer’s practice is focussed on clinical negligence and high-value, complex personal injury claims.

Hugh is recognised as a leading junior in Clinical Negligence by the Legal 500. He is an experienced practitioner who provides advice and representation at all stages of litigation. In cases involving a fatality he also acts for interested parties at the inquest.

His attention to detail and procedural knowledge is highly regarded by those who instruct him, as is his ability to connect with clients and put them at ease while providing detailed and comprehensive advice.

Areas of Expertise

Clinical Negligence & Healthcare

In his clinical negligence practice Hugh is instructed in cases involving a wide range of medical specialities, including orthopaedics, cardiology and general surgery. Cases he advises on include misdiagnosis and delayed diagnosis, unnecessary/inappropriate treatment, surgical negligence, pharmaceutical negligence and failure to obtain informed consent.

Hugh has extensive experience in cases involving ophthalmic negligence, and is sought after in particular for cases involving informed consent for cosmetic ophthalmic surgery including laser eye surgery and refractive lens exchange.
